

A short annotated bibliography for Safer Internet Day:
Online Safety of Children and Youth Hong Kong Roundtable 2018
Chitat Chan
2018-02-08

Buckingham, D. (1998). Media education in the UK: moving beyond protectionism. Journal of Communication, 48(1), 33-43.

This article describes the history of media education in the UK from Leavisite origins in the 1970s. It also discusses changing views of young people's relationships with the media, and from classroom- based research. It outlines the conceptual framework of contemporary media education and discuss the unresolved questions about learning and pedagogy.

Buckingham, D. (2000). After the death of childhood: growing up in the age of electronic media. Cambridge: Polity.

David Buckingham provides an overview of changes both in childhood and in the media environment in recent decades . He concerns the effects of the media on children.

Cranford, C. (2015). Parenting in a digital world : a step-by-step guide to internet safety. [Place of publication not identified]: ISS Publishing.

Parenting in a Digital World is an easy step-by-step guide will show parents how to manage the privacy settings on different operating systems and applications (e.g. Internet, social networking apps, game consoles).

Ofcom. Children's media literacy. Retrieved from <https://www.ofcom.org.uk/research-and-data/media-literacy-research/childrens>

Ofcom aims to promote and carry out research in children media literacy. It includes findings relating to parents' views about their children's media use, and the ways that parents monitor children's use of different types of media.

Ofcom. (2008). Review of Ofcom's media literacy programme 2004-08. Retrieved from <https://www.ofcom.org.uk/research-and-data/media-literacy-research/adults/review0408>

The Ofcom review has described its history, current activities, duties, level of resources in promoting media literacy.

上官賢恩. (2015). 網絡孩子: 父母教養新思維. 香港: 突破出版社.

This book includes four sections reviewing the effects of technology on children's development and learning. It also teaches parents on how to use technology wisely in cultivating their children's growth.

社會服務媒體交匯點. Retrieved from <http://onlinemhs.blogspot.hk/>

"Online Media for Human Services" is a group blog focusing on the use of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) in human services and on social issues related to ICT use. This platform aims to support human service practitioners and researchers to identify current trends, and to network strategic partners.